Acknowledgements

We are deeply appreciative for the grant funds from the University of South Florida Collaborative for Children and Families. We thank the project director of the Collaborative, Judi Jetson, for her support and commitment to this project.

We are extremely proud of the fact that this project was a true university/community collaborative effort on the part of many stakeholders. We thank the many individuals, churches, and organizations that participated in planning, writing and implementing the grant. We thank these individuals, churches and organizations who assisted with this project in many ways large and small. The initial partnership included: African-American Affairs Liaison (Hillsborough County Board of Commissioners), Beulah Baptist Institutional Church, CDC of Tampa, Inc., Feed Our Children, The First Baptist Church of College Hill, St. John Progressive Missionary Baptist Church, Cloud of Glory Worship Center, First Baptist Church of Progress Village, Greater New Hope Anointed Ministries, Tampa-Hillsborough Urban League, School of Social Work, the College of Business Administration, and the Louis de la Parte Florida Mental Health Institute at the University of South Florida.

We express our sincere gratitude to Rev. Calvin Callins, Rev. Bartholomew Banks, Rev. W. James Favorite, and Rev. Abraham Brown. These ministers provide their churches and other community sites for meeting space and other activities related to the project. They cooperated tirelessly with many requests from project staff for information, assistance, staff support, and providing their churches for group meetings with other ministers.

Special recognition and appreciation is given to Rev. Moses Brown, Rev. Walter Turner, Rev. Stephen Nunn, and Elder Charles Davis for their help and support. We would like to thank all members of the Pastors on Patrol commitment, leadership, and providing assistance for the completion of this project.

We especially want to thank the SEND staff members who worked with us on the manual. They included Samantha McDonald, Ellyon Bell, and Shelton Gilyard. We thank you for coordinating the community effort, making phone calls, attending meetings, typing, and your professionalism. Without you, we would not have this directory.

We express our appreciation for the help provided by the staff of the Division of Training, Education, Research, and Demonstration, Department of Child and Family Studies, Louis de la Parte Florida Mental Health Institute at the University of South Florida. We are also thankful to Dawn Khalil, Kathy Anthony and Victor Trinidad for their valuable desk top publishing skills in the completion of this project.

Introduction

The need for this project was voiced several years ago when several ministers in the West Tampa community were talking about their church ministries. They realized that they were unaware of what each were doing within the same community, and that they were providing similar programs. One minister commented that it would be good if they had a directory of church ministries. This proved to be the seed that was planted for the current directory. Throughout the years, many respected scholars have documented that African-American churches as important institutions of social support among African-American families. These churches provide one of the most recognizable vehicles in the community to develop networks of services and social supports.

A report of the African-American Family Support Coalition (Briscoe and McClain, 2000), a local collaborative effort of partners in Hillsborough County, which include local churches, identified the power of the church as one of the global strengths of the African-American community. In this report, the African-American church was viewed as a source of “spiritual strength to families, providing a wide array of services and social support for strengthening families” (Briscoe and McClain, 2000). Despite the impact of the African-American church as an influential social institution within the community, little effort has been made for identifying how the church improves the well being of families. This current project will identify the effort of local African-American faith-based institutions to improve levels of education and social supports for African-American children and families.

Every faith-based institution has unique resources and capabilities for providing educational and social service ministries that address the needs of children and families. The purpose of the Spiritual Educational Network Directory, (SEND), is to educate, communicate, and serve as a resource to promote the large role played by African-American churches in meeting those needs by providing educational and social service supports to children and families in their community.

*The purpose of SEND is to educate,
communicate, and serve as a resource to promote the large role played by African-American churches.*

“By the tender mercy of our God, the dawn from high will break upon us, to give light to those who sit in darkness.” Luke 1:78-79

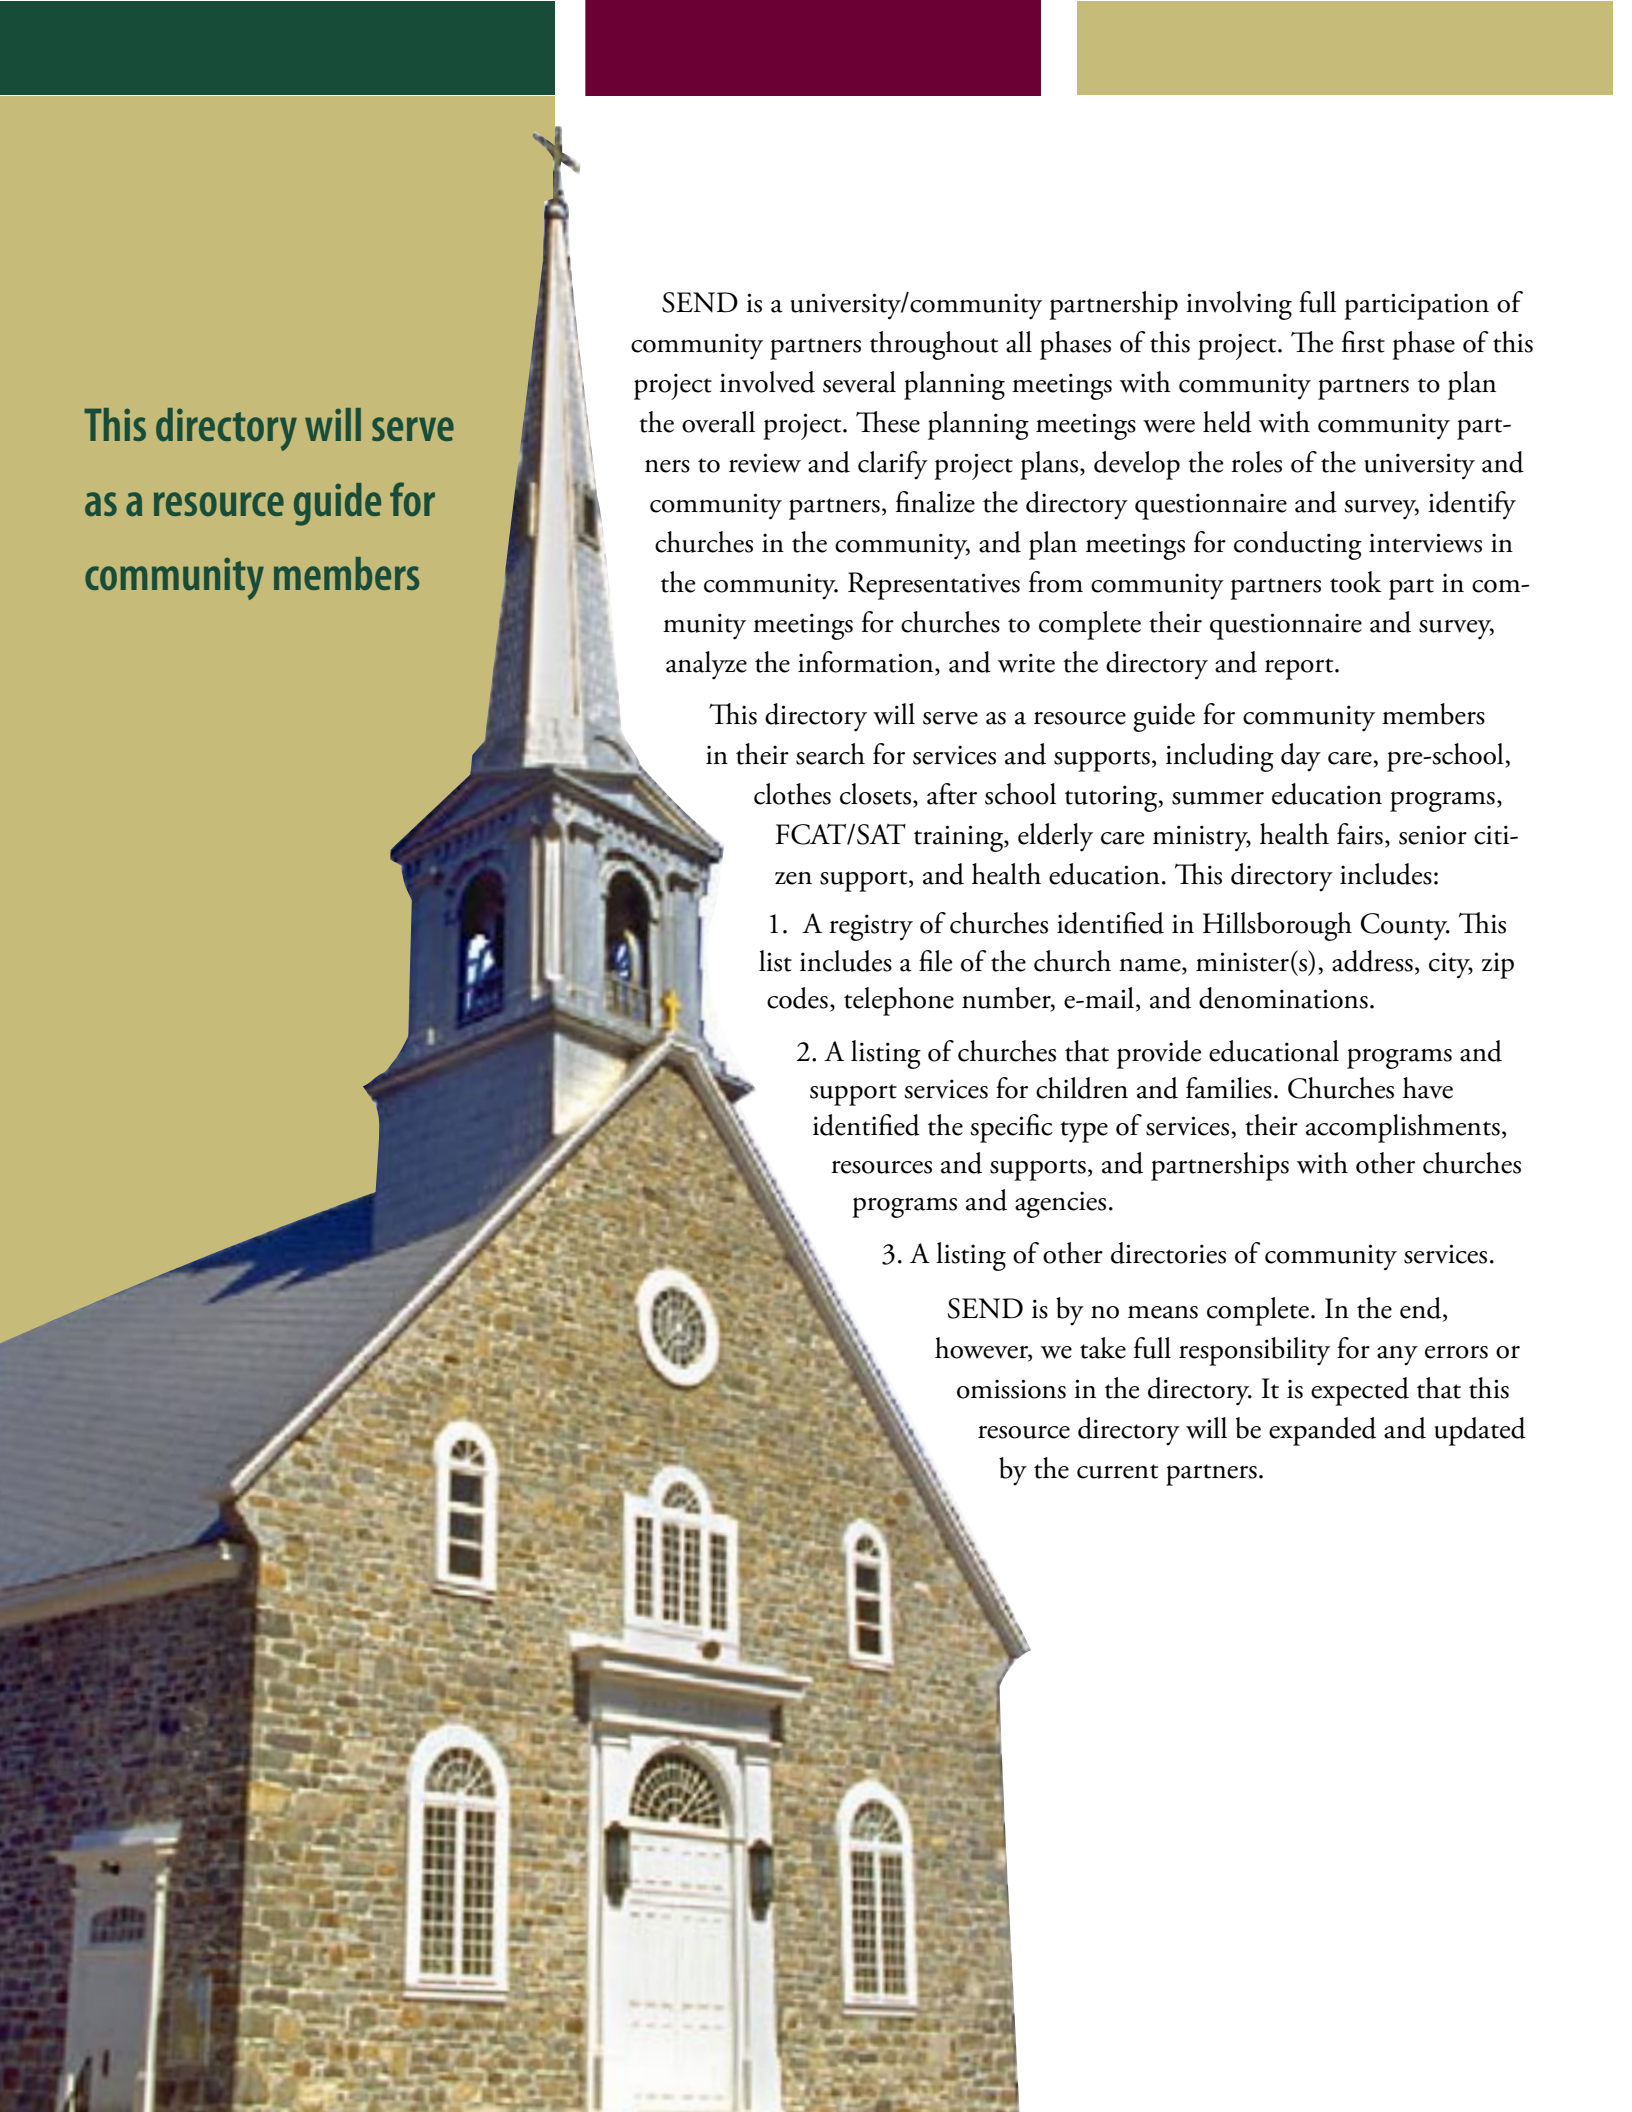

When we need help and guidance, we can find that light that can clear the way for us. God’s wisdom from prayer will shine a light with options that will bring the clarity we need to choose the right direction.

“I tell you, to everyone who has, more will be given . . .” Luke 19:26

As creatures of our Creator-God, our first obligation is to love the Lord our God. The second obligation is to recognize the special gifts that we were given. It is not what we want that is important, it is what God has given us that’s important. With God there is always good, blessing, prosperity, healing, and guidance.

“Then Jesus took the loaves, and when he had given thanks, he distributed them to those who were seated: so also the fish, as much as they wanted.” John 6:11

We know that God’s will for us is for good in all that we need and do for us and our families. Divine love gives us more than what we think we need or what we can ask for. God’s love moves through us, our families, friends, and events in our lives. We must pause, recognize and accept God’s harvest and share it with others.

This directory will serve as a resource guide for community members

SEND is a university/community partnership involving full participation of community partners throughout all phases of this project. The first phase of this project involved several planning meetings with community partners to plan the overall project. These planning meetings were held with community partners to review and clarify project plans, develop the roles of the university and community partners, finalize the directory questionnaire and survey, identify churches in the community, and plan meetings for conducting interviews in the community. Representatives from community partners took part in community meetings for churches to complete their questionnaire and survey, analyze the information, and write the directory and report.

This directory will serve as a resource guide for community members in their search for services and supports, including day care, pre-school, clothes closets, after school tutoring, summer education programs, FCAT/SAT training, elderly care ministry, health fairs, senior citizen support, and health education. This directory includes:

1. A registry of churches identified in Hillsborough County. This list includes a file of the church name, minister(s), address, city, zip codes, telephone number, e-mail, and denominations.
2. A listing of churches that provide educational programs and support services for children and families. Churches have identified the specific type of services, their accomplishments, resources and supports, and partnerships with other churches programs and agencies.
3. A listing of other directories of community services.

SEND is by no means complete. In the end, however, we take full responsibility for any errors or omissions in the directory. It is expected that this resource directory will be expanded and updated by the current partners.
